THROUGH THE BREAKERS

We have had so many complaints concerning the annoyance caused by the large hats now in use that we believe that all patrons of moving picture shows, have at one time or other been prevented from seeing the pictures by the hats of those in front and have been considerably annoyed by this interference. We have considered various ways to eliminate this trouble and have finally decided to ask the ladies who cannot conveniently remove their hats to occupy the seats on the left side of the room.

President Bush Says he Expects Baltimore to Have Steamship Line to Carry Trade. Papers Signed in New York.

Announcement of a close working agreement between the Western Maryland Railroad Company and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company was made today after a meeting of the Western Maryland executive committee in New York.

"A traffic arrangement, covering a period of 99 years," says a statement issued, "has been concluded between the Western Maryland Railroad Company and the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad Company."

"The contract as executed involves immediate extension of line to Cumberland, Md., to a connection with the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie line at Conneville, Pa., and provides for full traffic arrangements between the two lines, opening lines and terminals of each company to the traffic of the other company and its through connections."

"The Pittsburgh and Lake Erie road is operated in harmony with the Vanderbilt lines, the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern owning a large block of its stock. It traverses the largest industrial centers of Pennsylvania and Ohio."

President Benjamin F. Bush, of the Western Maryland Railroad, said that he would not be surprised if, in a few years, new steamship lines from Baltimore to Europe and South America were established as a result of the arrangement by which the Western Maryland Railroad becomes the tide-water terminus of the Vanderbilt interests. Mr. Bush admitted that such a subject had been considered by the interests behind the new alliance.

If the New York Central management will allow freight originating on its Western lines to be brought to Baltimore as the tide-water port it will mean that this harbor will become one of the busiest in the world. Thousands of tons of freight from the great manufacturing centers of the West are shipped to New York, and there transferred to steamers for Europe, South America and other parts of the world. Baltimore is entitled to a large part of this freight on account of her proximity to the sea.

Imports for the Central West and the South should naturally flow through this port, and it is hoped by the Baltimore merchants and shippers that the managers of the new road will not work to the disadvantage of Baltimore.

Work on the new link of road between Cumberland and New Haven, Pa., by which the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie and other Vanderbilt roads will have connections with the Western Maryland, will be started shortly, perhaps in a month. In the meantime the engineers of both roads are working out details and making arrangements for ordering steel and other requisites for the road.

One part of the work that will require much time is a tunnel 8,600 feet long, 20 miles west of Cumberland. Other smaller tunnels will be built, and it will be the shortest road from Pittsburgh to Baltimore.

President Bush said this link would cost about $12,000,000 and would be finished within two years.

MONT ALTO'S NEW POSTOFFICE

Postmaster C. W. Elden, Mont Alto, who was elevated to the presidential class, January 1, as this paper has told, is getting ready the new office he is required by the postoffice department to maintain. Heretofore the office has been kept in his store. This is no longer permitted.

He is fitting up a commodious room in a building about fifteen feet south of the present office and will use that as the new post office.

He has ordered new furniture and expects it this week. There will be 100 call boxes in the new office and the furniture will be so arranged that this number can be increased as the business of the office grows.

There is little doubt that the business will grow. Not only is Mont Alto expanding as a town and taking Pine Sanatorium is receiving new patients weekly and will soon have more than a thousand patients there, to which must be added several hundred people who are either in the service of the state there or are working for contractors.

The State forest academy also adds to the mail that passes through the Mont Alto office.

At present Postmaster Elden receives seven or eight canvas bags of mail each day. There are five mails daily.

TRIAL LIST FOR JANUARY COURT

New Associate Judges will Sit at First Regular Term of Quarter Session Court. Few Cases to be Tried.

The regular term of January Court will begin Tuesday the 25th, with two new Associate Judges on the bench, W. Howard Dick and Leo Sneeringer. This is not exactly the initiation of the new Judges into the realm of judicial proceedings. They were present at License Court and exercised their authority by granting the "Culp Liquor License" in McSherrystown, against which Judge Swope, filed a protest, and which was refused by the Court last year.

The trial list for the coming session is light and it should not take long to dispose of the cases to be heard.

Beginning Tuesday morning at 10.30 the following cases are entered.

Thomas J. O'Neal vs. Alexander H. Rehret, summons in an action of assumpsit.

Ella E. Orndorff vs. Jennie Miller and J. Frank Miller, summons in an action of trespass for slander.

CARLISLE DROPS BASEBALL

The Carlisle Indian School officials have made the surprising announcement that hereafter baseball will be cut off the list of sports in which the school will be represented by a regular team, and in its place lacrosse will be taken up.

This change has been considered for several years, and has been decided upon only after most thoughtful consideration. It is thought that because of the evils of summer, or professional baseball, and the fact that many students have been lured away from school and into bad company by offers before they had finished school, it would be best not to develop, by encouraging baseball, and ambition in the students to become professional players, since so few have the strength of character or the ability to engage in such a calling successfully.

Lacrosse is an Indian game. All who engage in the sport will start up on equal terms, since no one has experience before coming to Carlisle, and there is no chance for professionalism to turn the heads of the players, since there are no professional lacrosse teams.

Lacrosse will probably suit the Indian School well, as it is an interesting game, requiring speed, headwork, skill, endurance and team work, and while it cannot expect to have a very strong team the first season, it is expected that the Indians' natural ability will enable the team to make a creditable showing this spring.

Baseball will continue to be played by Carlisle's junior clubs.

The primaries to be held Saturday, January 22, for the nomination of candidates for office in the borough and townships, will close the old form of holding a Spring Election. The State constitutional amendments voted on last Fall, provide for a General Election to be held every two years, in the Fall of the even-numbered years, instead of annually as the old system calls for, and a municipal Election to be held every two years, on the Tuesday following the first Monday of November, instead of annually, as at present.

No change will be made in the coming primaries, they will be governed by the old primary law.

Under the Schedule of Amendment, election officers chosen at the February election will serve until the first Monday in December, 1911, and thereafter their term will be two years.

STATEHOOD BILL PASSED

For the third time the House of Representatives passed a bill on Monday giving separate Statehood to the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona. The vote was taken amid applause. The absence of opposition to the measure was the most striking feature of the debate.

The bill provides the limitations that are to prevail in the power of the States to legislate, restricting the sale of liquor among the Indians and providing methods for State organization.

Friends of the measure declare they have encouraging assurances of its passage by the Senate.

GIBBONS ON HIGH LIVING

"Most of the prices of food products are clearly out of all reason," said Cardinal Gibbons in an interview, "and the people cannot go on paying such prices when they are not earning any more than they were some years ago when prices were not so high."

The cardinal was unable to assign a reason for the high prices that prevail, but he said something "evidently is wrong when many of the commonest necessities in food are priced at such enormous figures. Something must be done to put the price of foods on a reasonable basis, and any method which will bring this about I endorse."

JOSEPH WIERMAN FELL 35 FEET

On Monday afternoon about four o'clock Joseph Wierman, who is employed at the Blocher coal yard, met with a serious accident.

Mr. Wierman was walking on top of a carload of soft coal which, judging from the appearance of the snow and ice on top, he supposed was frozen into a solid mass. This however proved to be a trap and Mr. Wierman was the victim.

Before climbing on to the car he had opened the gates in the bottom of the car to allow the coal to pass into the bin beneath. Just as Mr. Wierman stepped on the crust of snow directly over the gate, the mass gave way and he fell through the trap doors down into the coal bin beneath. The car was standing on a high trestle and in falling, his shoulder and hip struck the ties bruising him so severely that he was rendered helpless. The height of the fall was about 35 feet. Mr. Wierman is getting along as well as can be expected.

When the late Robert Bonner purchased Maud S. he sent her to Charter Oak park to be trained. One day a friend of Mr. Bonner left New York to visit him at the park, but found that the train did not stop at that station. The conductor was polite, but said that he could not go against orders. At New Haven a halt was made, and Mr. Bonner's friend tried to bribe the engineer with a ten dollar bill, but in vain. He was then told that Charles P. Clark, the president of the road, was on the train, and he went to him.

"Why don't you see the conductor?" asked Mr. Clark.

"I have, but he will not disobey orders."

"Why not then go forward and bribe the engineer?"

"I tried bribery at New Haven, but it would not work."

The absence of evasion was the best policy. Mr. Clark not only gave orders to have the train stopped at Charter Oak, but promised some day to see Maud S. He had witnessed the attempt at bribery, and the frank confession of the offense seemed to please him.

Chicago the Danger Line.

"Speaking of fishbills," remarked an ardent New England admirer of that form of food who was eating in a Dearborn street restaurant the other day, "I will tell you a sad, sad truth about them."

"If you order them in Boston they are practically all fish. Yes, sir—solid, bona fide fish. Move west a bit—to Albany, say. What happens? The amount of fish in each fishball has dwindled. Proceed to Buffalo. A certain self assertiveness begins to be apparent with the fish. On to Cleveland! Fishballs there are half potato, half fish, with the accent on potato. On to Chicago! There potato has the upper hand!"

He groaned.

"How is it in the far west?"

He leaned forward.

Preparing For a Journey.

Jerome K. Jerome recalled with reverence a habit of his methodical uncle, who, before packing for a journey, always "made a list." This was the system which he followed, gathered from his uncle's own lips:

"Take a piece of paper and put down on it everything you can possibly require. Then go over it and see that it contains nothing you can possibly do without."

"Imagine yourself in bed. What have you got on? Very well; put it down, together with a change. You got up. What do you do? Wash yourself. What do you wash yourself with? Soap. Put down soap. Go on till you have finished. Then take your clothes. Begin at your feet. What do you wear on your feet? Boots, shoes, socks. Put them down. Work up till you get to your head. What do you want besides clothes? Put down everything."

This is the plan the old gentleman always pursued. The list made, he would go over it carefully to see that he had forgotten nothing. Then he would go over it again and strike out everything it was possible to dispense with. Then he would lose the list.

PAULHAN'S NEW RECORD

Daring Aviator Travels 45 Miles in Cross-Country Flight.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—Paulhan, the daring Frenchman, accomplished another great feat when he made a successful cross-country flight of forty-five miles. He started for Baldwin's ranch. He rose to a height of 300 feet. The wind was with him and he traveled at tremendous speed.

After ten minutes of flight he disappeared in the haze that lay over the first range of the Sierra Madre. Flying at an altitude of 1000 feet, he circled the Santa Anita race track, flew over Arcadia and then started on the return trip for the aviation camp, flying at a rapid rate. When his alarisp was sighted at the camp the excitement was intense and the crowd cheered the Frenchman from the time he was within hearing distance until he landed safely at the starting point. He had been in the air one hour and three minutes.

At one time Paulhan gained an altitude of 2130 feet. This establishes a new world's record for cross-country flights.

GENERAL DRAPER DYING

Former Ambassador to Italy Being Kept Alive by Stimulants.

Washington, Jan. 19.—General William F. Draper, who was ambassador to Italy in 1897, having been appointed April 5, and serving until Sept. 5, 1900, is dying at his magnificent residence in this city of cirrhosis of the liver.

He has been kept alive for several days by the use of stimulants, but it is not thought he can survive more than a day or two, if that long. Physicians from this city, Baltimore and New York are in attendance.

General Draper's family is with him.

BANKS TO COMBINE TO FIGHT GRAFT

Five Big Pittsburg Institutions Will Merge.

Pittsburg, Jan. 19.—In order to better centralize the banking business of Pittsburg and to be better able to protect against grafting employees or officials of banks, several of the large banking institutions of Pittsburg have set on foot a plan of consolidation, which will, if carried out, prove one of the big bank deals of a decade. It is a consolidation of at least five banks, whose combined surplus will make the combination most strong. There is a rumor that before the combination is ended that the surplus will exceed $30,000,000. The banks now named in the rumored consolidation are the First National, the Second National, the Farmers' Deposit National, the Columbia National and the German National banks.

SLAY AND ROB MERCHANT

Body Found in Yard Riddled With Shot; $3000 Missing.

Cape Charles, Va., Jan. 19.—One of the most atrocious murders in the annals of the Eastern Shore of Virginia was committed by unknown robbers who broke into the store of John W. Hart, a merchant of Poulson, Va., and after beating him into insensibility with a blunt instrument, procured his shotgun, riddled his body with shot and dragged his prostrate form to a woodpile in the yard.

His head was literally blown from his body. The corpse was found in the morning by neighbors.

Hart was a bachelor and lived alone in the dwelling part of the store. He was known to have carried large sums of money and kept a considerable amount about the house. While the exact amount of booty taken is not known, $3000 kept in the house by Hart is missing.

SCOURGE OF HOOKWORM

Twenty-five Per Cent of Mill Employees in South Infected.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 19.—"The most serious infectious disease in the south is that of the hookworm," declared Dr. Charles Ward Stiles, of the United States public health service, at the opening session of the first national conference called for the study of this disease.

Twenty-five per cent of the mill employees of the south are infected with the hookworm, said Dr. Stiles. He based the statement on personal visits made by him to 128 mills in southern states.

$1,500,000 in Taxicab.

Pittsburg, Jan. 19.—The chauffeur of a taxicab who drove through Pittsburg's streets might have juggled his meter up to register 3,000,000 miles and even then not have exhausted the "fare" he carried. Inside the car was $1,500,000 in cash and securities of the Fourth National bank, which has been merged with the National Bank of Western Pennsylvania. The cashier, three tellers and a bookkeeper, armed with large revolvers, kept guard during the removal of the treasure.

FIGHT OVER BALLINGER PROBE

Republicans Will Try to Oust Radical Democrats.

FEAR THEY'LL PLAY POLITICS

An Attempt Will Be Made Tomorrow to Substitute Two Other Democrats For James and Rainey, and a Lively Scrap Is Looked For.

Washington, Jan. 19.—An old-time battle is slated to take place in the lower house of congress tomorrow. After figuring all day on a plan by which Representatives James and Rainey could be kept off the Ballinger-Pinchot commission of investigation, for which they were selected by the Democratic caucus, without disrupting the recently reached peace pact forcing half of the half-tamed insurgents out of the Republican caucus this evening and generally kicking up an awful lot of dust, the house organization reached a tentative decision.

This is the plan of attack at the caucus, and it is proposed to select Representatives Olmsted, of Pennsylvania; McCall, of Massachusetts; Esch, of Wisconsin; and Madison, of Kansas, to serve as the Republican members of the joint commission of inquiry. Mr. Esch replaces, in this tentative plan, Representative Stevens, of Minnesota, who has declined to serve.

The organization cannot see that there is anything in the make-up of this end of the committee that cannot of any possibility meet with the opposition of the insurgents. It is true that Olmsted is an organization man, but he is generally recognized as having more than ordinary ability and 'actionness, while as far as the rest are concerned, McCall, while not even remotely related to an insurgent, is personally independent and has the respect of his colleagues on both sides of the house. Esch jumps the reservation every now and then, while Madison is an outlaw and glories in it.

James and Rainey Objectable.

It had been the plan to name the two Democrats at the Republican caucus tonight to serve on the committee in place of Messrs. James and Rainey, who, as is very well known, are extremely objectionable to the Republican side owing to their extreme partisan methods and the belief that with them on the committee that body would develop as far as they were able to turn the trick into a manufactory of Democratic campaign literature. But as soon as it became apparent that if an attempt were made in the Republican caucus to select two other Democrats for this work that at least half, and probably more, of the insurgent strength would get up and walk out, it was necessary to find another adjustment of the situation.

So it was decided not to force the issue in the caucus, but that tomorrow when the proposition of formally selecting the committee members comes up in the house to have Representative Mann, of Illinois, offer an amendment to the resolution from the committee on rules, adding Representatives A. Mitchell Palmer, of Pennsylvania, and Borland, of Missouri, both Democrats, to the four Republicans endorsed by the caucus.

Now when this question of adopting the amendment to be proposed by Mr. Mann is put to a vote there will be all kinds of a split. At least half of the insurgents led by Representative Norris, of Nebraska, say they believe the Democratic caucus selections should be ratified, however objectionable the selections may be in a partisan and political sense to the Republicans, and that they won't stand for this attempt by the organization to bring in a couple of substitutes. The other half of the insurgents, led by Representative Hayes, of California, will vote with the regular Republicans. But this event isn't all. Prominent members of the organization who haven't yet made up their minds on the proposition will, most all of them in all probability, wind up by swallowing their personal convictions and following the bell cow of the majority herd.

EATED BY HUNGRY WOLVES

Vienna, Jan. 19.—While Baron Otto Orban, a Hungarian magnate, aged seventy years, was riding on his estate in Transylvania, he was chased by hungry wolves. His horse became frenzied and threw the baron, who was devoured by the wolves. A bloody knife, found in the snow, indicates that he fought for his life.

BISHOP FOSS STRICKEN

Methodist Episcopal Prelate Suffers a Stroke of Paralysis.

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—Bishop Cyrus D. Foss, of the Methodist Episcopal church, suffered a stroke of paralysis while riding in an Arch street car, and he is now in the Hahnemann hospital in a serious condition. His entire right side is paralyzed and he has lost the power of speech.

Because of his advanced age—Bishop Foss was seventy-six years old on Monday—fears are entertained for his recovery. For a year or more his health has been precarious. It is only recently that he has been able to go out.

Bishop Foss left his home, at 2043 Arch street, to take a short walk and to mail a letter. He walked down Arch street to Tenth, and there boarded a westbound car which passes his door. At Thirteenth street he uttered a sharp cry and the car was stopped. He was helpless and was carried into a store at the corner and a few moments later he was removed to the hospital.

WINE KILLS GIRL OF SIX

Child Smuggled Bottle Out After Wedding Ceremony.

New York, Jan. 19.—Eva Bonnac, six years old, died of a complaint that most frequently kills off derelicts on the Bowery—alcoholism. An autopsy performed shows that the child's death resulted from drinking a pint of wine, which she smuggled away after attending a wedding ceremony with her parents on Sunday night. She died on Monday in a hospital.

JOHN R. WALSH OFF FOR PRISON CELL

Aged Financier is Taken to Leavenworth, Kan.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—John R. Walsh, once a power in Chicago financial, newspaper and business circles, was taken to the Fort Leavenworth, Kan., federal prison to serve a five years' sentence for wrecking the Chicago National bank.

Exactly two years to the day and the hour after he was found guilty Walsh lost his last fight for a new trial. The United States circuit court of appeals refused his petition that the verdict be set aside and the case tried over again, and issued a mandate directing that the sentence of the lower court be carried out at once.

Four years, one month and one day will have elapsed since the Chicago National bank failed, carrying down with it the Home Savings bank and the Equitable Trust company, Dec. 18, 1905.

Walsh appeared in Judge Landis' court when the commitment was signed. Walsh left the courtroom with his relatives. He looked old, weak, hopeless and almost ill. He tottered and almost fell as he left and descended the steps from the building very slowly and had to be helped into the automobile.

NO BEE IN HUGHES' BONNET

Washington, Jan. 19.—There is no buzzing of the 1912 presidential bee in the bonnet of Governor Hughes, of New York.

According to his own statement his declaration to be a candidate for a third term as governor of New York has no political significance, and he hasn't given the Republican nomination in 1912 a thought.

Jury Convict Wife Avenger.

Lancaster, Pa., Jan. 19.—After deliberating for more than six hours, the jury in the case of Harvey Stewart, charged with killing Charles Sweeney, near Christiansburg, on Dec. 4, brought in a verdict of guilty of murder in the second degree. The principals in the tragedy live in the Welsh mountains, and Sweeney had incited Stewart's jealousy by telling him that his wife preferred another man. Stewart secured a gun and compelled Sweeney to repeat his assertions. When he did so, Stewart fired, killing him on the spot.

STICK TO YOUR TRADE

By B. CRITTENDEN LYTLE.

[Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.]

We move in ruts. Getting accustomed to one kind of work, we are unfitted for another. Let a husband ask his wife to buy him a few cigars and the wrappers will likely be paper colored, to look like tobacco leaf. Let a wife ask her husband to hire a maid and, though she may be comely, she will have to be got rid of instantly.

One would suppose that all soldiering is alike. Nothing of the kind. An infantryman knows nothing about cannon; an artilleryman knows nothing about the signal service.

These remarks are a preface to the recital of an attempt to make a fighter out of a musician—an army musician. Jacob Gobelier was a bugler in one of the regular regiments. When the regiment was preparing to go to Cuba at the time of the Spanish-American war he became ambitious to be a real soldier instead of a tooter. His sergeant told him that he had better stick to his bugle, but Jacob said that when a bugler was killed in battle there was no glory in his death. He preferred to die with weapons in his hands instead of a bugle.

So Jacob became a soldier and was in the first battle fought after the troops landed near Santiago. Unfortunately it was his first fight, and he was rattled. Men were being shot down beside him by an enemy they could not see. Some of the corps were getting back; others were standing. Jacob got it into his head that he should sound a retreat. Putting his hand back to grasp his bugle, he found a revolver instead. Putting the muzzle into his mouth, he tried to blow. In his excitement he must have pulled the trigger for he was brought to his senses by feeling something warm on his jaw, and, putting his hand there, he found blood pouring from a hole in his cheek. The wonder was that the bullet had not gone through the vertebrae at the back of his neck and killed him. He must have blown through a corner of his mouth.

Jacob was in a hospital till pretty near the end of the war. It would have been better for him to return to the duties of a bugler, but the hole in his cheek didn't close up, and an attempt to blow a bugle would send all the wind out at the side of his face instead of through his bugle.

When Jacob returned to duty he found it impossible to explain to his comrades how he came by the hole in his cheek. The story got out, and he was laughed at. This fired him with a desire to redeem himself. He longed for an opportunity, and the opportunity came. There was no lack of fighting around Santiago. True, the Spanish and American forces were standing off from one another, but there were sorties and charges. One day Jacob was in some very tight fighting. The colonel was racing about with his bugler at his heels blowing his orders when suddenly the bugle dropped from his hand and he fell from his horse. The colonel, seeing his bugler knocked out, looked about for another, but there was none at hand. The captain of Jacob's company, realizing his predicament, cried out: "We've got a bugler here, colonel. Gobelier, get up there on that horse!"

Gobelier, obedient and forgetting that he had been disqualified to blow orders by his wound, picked up the bugle, mounted the horse and placed himself directly in the colonel's rear. The Spaniards were preparing to crush the American troops on that part of the field. The colonel saw a brigade of the enemy swinging round on his right to get in his rear and gave Jacob an order to signal a change of front. Jacob put his bugle to his lips and blew, but there was no sound. All the wind was going out through the hole in his cheek.

The colonel looked at him in surprise and anger. Jacob clapped his hand to his cheek, but did not succeed in forcing the wind through the bugle. Shutting his mouth, he put the bugle to the hole in his cheek. Since no wind could get out through his mouth it went through his cheek. At any rate, enough of it got through the bugle to faintly sound the colonel's order. But Jacob's delay gave the enemy an advantage that pretty nearly caused the capture of the regiment. It was saved only by support coming in the nick of time. When the fighting was over the colonel called out to Jacob's captain: "Keep that man in the ranks, captain. He's no good for a bugler."

"He was a good bugler, colonel, but he insisted on going into the ranks. The first thing he did was to try to blow a signal on his pistol and shot a hole in his cheek. Now he's no good for either a soldier or a bugler."

After this episode Jacob was so ridiculed by the men that he tried to get himself killed in order to escape their jokes. To make matters worse it seemed that all the buglers in the army were getting shot, and the commanding officers were always sending for men who could sound the calls. It was constantly: "Say, Gobelier, you can blow a bugle, can't you? Oh, I forgot. You ruined your wind trying to blow down the muzzle of a pistol." These and other references to his misfortune so worked upon Jacob that he gave up trying to be a hero and concluded to sink into an inferior bugler. Going to the hospital, he secured a hot water bag and turned it into a wind bag, making a close connection with rubber bands between its mouth and that of his bugle. Then he offered himself to his colonel to sound calls, and, there being no one else to fill the place, Jacob was accepted. As soon as the war was over he was discharged.

Wild Animals in New York City.

It is a remarkable fact that there are always more wild animals about than any but the expert has an idea of. For example, there are within twenty miles of New York city fully fifty different kinds—not counting birds, reptiles or fishes—one-quarter of which at least are abundant, or more particularly within the limits of Greater New York there are at least a dozen species of wild beasts, half of which are quite common.—Country Life in America.

Flesh-forming Food that Succeeds Nearly Every Time.

A man or woman might as well starve outright as to take food into the stomach and not have it assimilated, yet in Gettysburg as well as in every other town or city, there are many people who are thin, pale and seem underfed, simply because the food they eat is not assimilated, and fails to make good blood and firm flesh. Samose, the wonderful flesh-forming food taken before or after meals, mingles with the food, so that it is assimilated by the system and makes rich blood and pleasing plumpness. No

TOBACCO CURING BY HEAT.

New Type of Closed Barn Used by a Connecticut Grower.

Tobacco growing is counted among the hazardous lines of agriculture in that a crop may be totally destroyed within a very short time by hail or by pole sweat in the curing shed. Danger of hail damage is eliminated in the growing of shade tobacco, but the menace of pole sweat is as great as ever. Last season, however, the first scientific experiment on a large scale to guard against pole sweat in cigar leaf tobacco was made on the farm of William Pinney at Sniffeld, Conn. The result may ultimately place the farmer in absolute control of the curing process, shortening the time and determining the shade the tobacco shall be when it has been cured.

The experiment was simply the utilization of artificial heat during the curing process. Some kinds of heavy leaf tobacco are cured in tight barns and with fire, and it has long been a common practice to build charcoal fires in the barns when tobacco was in grave danger of being ruined by pole sweat. But until the experiment on the Pinney farm no effort had been made to control the curing and coloring of cigar leaf.

A special type of barn is required for this work. A ventilator along the entire ridge which may be readily opened or closed tight is an important feature. Instead of the crude charcoal burners placed on the ground, creating a fire menace, specially constructed furnaces, five in number, were placed in the ground. The feed doors are on the outside of the building, so that smoke and vapors from the fire cannot enter the barn and affect the flavor of the tobacco. The smoke pipe of each furnace runs across the entire width of the building and returns on a parallel ten feet away and at a slight pitch. The vents are in the side of the barn. The smoke pipe forms the only heat radiating service.

Immediately after the crop was put into the barn the fires were started and the barn closed tightly. The temperature was run up to 80 degrees and the fires permitted to die down after the first day. The curing by this method was hastened at least five days.

NEW TYPE OF TOBACCO BARN.

Very excellent natural atmospheric conditions for curing prompted Mr. Pinney to abandon further application of artificial heat. It was noted during the first two days when the barn was closed that the tobacco turned a rich yellow. The final result was a large percentage of excellent wrappers.

The furnaces were installed under the supervision of a representative of the United States department of agriculture, and the curing was followed by John B. Stewart, United States tobacco expert in the Connecticut valley, who acted in an advisory capacity to Mr. Pinney. The entire crop was prime tobacco and has since been sold at a little less than 25 cents per pound. Next year this method will have a more thorough test. The value of a barn full of tobacco is no small item, and any experiment which might destroy such a valuable product is naturally conducted with greatest caution.

Tobacco men are confident that the barn curing process will eventually be as easily controlled as the sweating process by means of steam heat.

Winter Care of Cabbage.

How deeply should cabbage plants be covered where the ground sometimes freezes three and four feet? Does it hurt cabbage to freeze? Should plants be taken up before freezing in the autumn? How early in the spring should they be set out? These questions are answered by Linnaeus Allen of Nassau county, N. Y., as follows: "Where the ground freezes three and four feet deep it will be necessary to plow up the cabbage after trenching so that the heads will be covered with at least a foot of soil. On top of this should be a heavy mulch of cornstalks or other suitable material. It does not hurt cabbage to be frozen in the trenches provided it remains frozen for a long time. What hurts it is to be thawed and then frozen several times.

The plants should be taken up and put in the trenches before the soil becomes frozen too hard to work easily. Two or three heavy frosts will not hurt the plants, nor would a reasonable amount of freezing, except that the heads will bruise easily when frozen, and this will cause rot.

If you wish to put the cabbage away for seed growing next spring the heads should be set out as soon as the ground can be put in good condition after the frost is out.

TAKING THE WHOLE COUNTRY BY STORM

The new remedy is a recent discovery, but it is taking the whole country by storm. It has cured so many people throughout the state within the past few months that scores of newspapers are publishing local testimonials, giving names, streets and numbers of many, people whose word cannot be doubted. The remedy certainly must have remarkable merit as so many people after using it a short while are advising their sick friends to try it. The Greensburg, Indiana, Daily Review recently published the following: Mr. J. W. Boyle, of 116 East Washington street, said: "My wife has been taking Root Juice and it has done wonders for her. Before taking it she had a very bad stomach. The lightest food would sour on her stomach and cause it to burn and pain her very much. In fact, she said she felt like it was raw from top to bottom. Recently her trouble was aggravated by an attack of LaGrippe. Her appetite was very poor, but after taking the Root Juice a few days she had a good appetite and could digest everything she ate without the least pain or inconvenience. She is no longer weak and nervous, and seems like a new woman. The remedy has proved a wonderful blessing to her." In fact, so many people are talking about the new remedy and telling about its great soothing, healing and toning qualities to the stomach, bowels, liver and kidneys that it is now hard for the Root Juice people to make it fast enough to fill all orders. It is retailed for one dollar a bottle. Many local people have testified to its wonderful merits, as anyone can learn by going to the People's drug store.

WE DON'T HAVE EARS.

The Latest Idea in Fashioning is to Conceal the Auricular Orifices.

Artists both ancient and modern have always considered the ears as unsightly members of the human anatomy. And now comes the verdict from Parisian hairdressers that they also have the same artistic objection to ears. These authorities are arranging the coiffures of their clients in the no ear style. Mop, Sans Gene, Brittany, moyen age and turban are some of the appellations given the new hair arrangement. It matters little, though, what it is called—the requisite thing is to fix the hair so that it is flat in front and draped over the ears in a becoming fashion.

The real turban style of hairdressing no three artists do alike. The hair may be loosely braided and wound around the head, or it may be twisted into a rope and placed from nape of neck to forehead in as near a circle as the head will permit. At other times it is arranged in a long cap puff in the middle of the head, and luxurious ropes or braids of hair are wound around this. In any of these styles no hair-pins must show except the four huge shell ones that are to hold the coils in place. There is no perceptible pompadour, but the hair is disposed about the face in a manner most flattering to the face.

RULES FOR THE GUESTS.

The girl who goes to other people's houses as a guest either for a fortnight or a week end should be careful about remembering certain things. She does not want her hostess to hope at her departure that she will never come again.

If you are a guest observe these rules:

Be punctual at meals. Don't make engagements until you consult your hostess.

Don't write to friends and ask them to call until you are sure that such visitors will be welcomed by your hostess.

Don't have your breakfast taken to your room unless the hostess urges it. Don't fail to provide your own writing paper, stamps and pen.

Carry your own soap and washcloth. Don't follow your hostess in all her tasks. Let her have some time to herself.

Don't stay beyond the day set for your departure unless something unusual happens or your hostess urges it. Take a half hour every morning for putting away your clothes and straightening your room. Don't leave everything to the laundry.

Attend to your own laundry and be prompt about paying for it.

Things Worth Knowing.

New bread may be cut quite evenly if the knife is very slightly heated.

Never put salt into soup when cooking until it is skimmed, as salt prevents the scum from rising.

When baking cake or bread if the oven gets too hot the temperature may be reduced by placing a pan of cold water in the oven.

In preparing bread for toast and for sandwiches, where the crust is to be removed, try using a pair of sharp scissors to trim the edges. It takes much less time and makes a neater job. Keep a pair of scissors in your kitchen especially for this purpose.

Before cooking canned goods place in a colander and drain off all juice and rinse with cold water. The seasoning must be supplied with good fresh butter, milk, salt and pepper. Leave no canned goods in a can that has been opened. Remove at once. This may rob the vegetables of some food value, but it is safest and best to do so.

Norwegian Rice.

For a Norwegian way of serving rice cook it till tender in boiling water, then drain off all superfluous liquid around it and add enough chicken stock to moisten it a little. Cook it again until thick and dish it. Sprinkle with chopped chicken livers, scrambled eggs and grated cheese. The dish should be highly seasoned with pepper, salt and any desirable seasonings.

Mamma—Tommy, you've been nighting again. Your clothes are torn, and your face is scratched. Why can't you do like your little sister? She never fights. Small Tommy—Well, mamma, it's better to have a good square fight and get all the mad out of you than to carry it in you for months like girls do.—Chicago News.

More's the Pity.

Patience—It takes two to make a quarrel, you know. Patrice—And yet I have known quarrels to occur when two persons have been made one.—Yonkers Statesman.
